The Voyage of the Clipper Ship

We set sail—was it three years ago? Or even four? The seadogs who sat around the dock, smoking pipes and wheezing, told us tales of strange exotic ports where coconuts, or secret books, or shoes with co[illegible] into them could be gotten. Some of us had no choice but to climb aboard; we were indentured or condemned. Some of us, young and eager, had the sea fever; we lay awake at night smelling salt. All of us were a bit afraid, because we loved the land.

The voyage was rough at first. Seasickness was not uncommon. Did you think one enormous swell would capsize us? Did you get the urge once, deep in you, to jump ship? But once we got our sea legs, we could sit up high on the spanker boom, spying for [illegible] war, talking to the porpoises, even do a bit of fishing [illegible] the stern. By day, we hopped to the

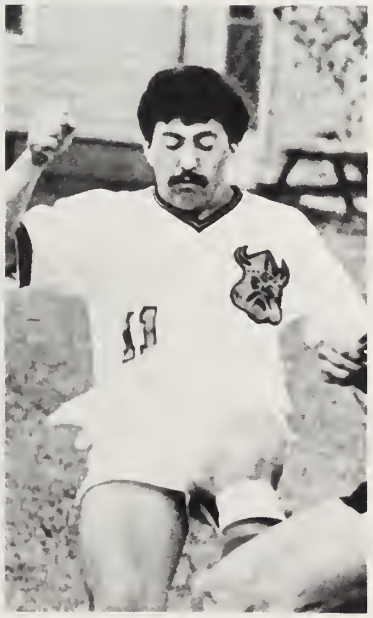
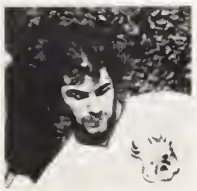
Soccer





Coach Marc Whitehouse watched his team steadily improve throughout the year, as Kenny and Roy Kosher led the attack along with Dave Coleman. Salem just missed a bid to the Division III playoffs.

The squad was made up of five seniors. They included: Co-Captains Dave Coleman and Mark Azarian, Dave Martin, Lenny Mills, and Ron Vangell. The other players will miss these players but their experienced play was beneficial for all.

Women's Volleyball

For the second year in a row, the volleyball team went undefeated in state college competition to capture the M.S.C.A.C. Title.

At the New England Invitational Volleyball Tourney, the women placed second. They won a team trophy and M.V.P. Awards went to senior Capt. Cheryl Ambrifi and junior Kathy Basteri.

The Salem volleyballers were seeded second in the third annual M.A.I.A.W. State Tournament held at W.P.I. The women played excellent under the pressure of the tournament. They won all of their qualifying matches defeating Gordon College and Northeastern University. In the finals Salem soundly defeated E.N.C. 2-0 to win their first M.A.I.A.W. Division II Title. The M.V.P. Award went to Kathy Basteri.

Members of the volleyball team included Cheryl (Laverine) Ambrifi (Sr. Capt. 4 years MVP), Kathy Basteri (Jr. 3 yrs. twice MVP), Kathy Bloomer (Fr.), Martha Hughes (Soph. 2 yrs.), Suzanne O'Brien (Fr.), Mary (Shirley) Feeney (Sr. 3 yrs.), Michele Rzeznikiewicz (Jr. 3 yrs.) and Anne Seluk (Fr.)

They were a very unified and balanced team with welcomed strong talent from Freshman and Sophomore members. The consistent, excellent all around play from Michele Rzeznikiewicz, and superb setting and blocking from Mary Feeney combined with the teams 2 M.V.P.'s, Cheryl and Kathy, gave the Salem squad its power.

Athletic Training

What Is Athletic Training?

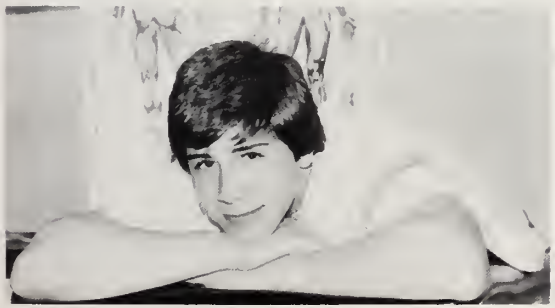
Athletic Training involves helping the athlete condition him or herself for regular season play, he diagnoses injuries and provides treatment and rehabilitation of those injuries.

An obvious qualification for an Athletic Trainer is the knowledge of the body and how it works. But, an important underlying qualification is the ability of the Athletic Trainer to gain the athletes trust and to be able to communicate with the athletes.

Is There An Athletic Training Office At Salem State?

In Pre-Complex days, the Athletic Training Room was located below the Main Campus Gym, in a tiny Locker Room. It was run part time by Bonnie Schreck and a few Student Trainers.

With the opening of the O'Keefe Sports Complex, came a need for a full time Athletic Trainer. The new Athletic Training Room is located on the lower level of the Complex. It is run very competently by Bill Bulloch.



Who Is Bill Bulloch . . . And Where Is He From?

Bill Bulloch is the man who takes care of Salem State's athletes. Bill, a certified Athletic Trainer, came to Salem State almost three years ago. He was the Trainer at Bridgewater State College for two years previous to coming here.

Because Bill is a certified Athletic Trainer, he has Student Trainers working for him. The Student Trainers are learning from Bill and accumulating hours, so that they may become certified. The Student Trainers for the 1978-1979 year were; Charlie Rozanski, Maryellen Zielski, Karen Dyke, Kathy Dyke, Kim Perenick and Sue Perro.

The Program Council is an organization concerned with the imperative need of entertainment on campus. Various coordinatorships are offered under the Program Council each with a separate title and duty and various responsibilities for the students delight. Salem State has progressed to the point of going beyond other schools in the way of entertainment such as; Pub nites, Coordinated by Pat Monahan, providing bands and dances for relaxation, there is a video room offered for interesting tapes maintained by Mike Johnson. John Mauch coordinated the New Concepts program. Lori Freid coordinated Performing Arts, which displayed the Boston Repertory Ballet. Laurianne Sabina took on the dutiful responsibility of the yearbook named the Clipper. Diane Drumm organized the Sophmore Class which enjoyed an elegant dinner dance. Karen Salerno organized the Junior Class. Among activites was a Dance-a-thon for Muscular Dystrophy. Likewise, Steve Savoy raised the spirit of the Senior Class, Senior Week, and Commencement.

The Arts are essential to mention and appreciate as Holly Geller performed her duties in the art gallery and Sue Stewart ran Arts and Crafts. Francis Croken presented lecture and forum and Charlie Carr took care of all the Student Ads. Bruce Solar retained Scarborough Fair for musicians and talents to amuse all. Joannie Roderick was the Arts Festival Coordinator. Her programs consisted of an Oktoberfest and a two week Arts Festival. Decca Wingard, the Chairperson of the Program Council, coordinated Films. A most memorable position of the Program Council is Concerts. That position was held by Warren Yaffi. Alyse Rizzotti had the responsibility of Recreation which included a ski trip and a trip to Montreal. And don't forget the Christmas Party that is held annually sponsored by Freshman Class. This years coordinator was Sue Germain.

WMWM

The year 78-79 was one of trial and triumph for WMWM. To begin with the station didn't open until Friday October 13, which had been a bad omen because within two months WMWM ran without management until February, when Shannon Maguire and Harry LeBlanc were elected to the positions of General Manager and Station Manager respectively. Also at this time, the position of Technical Advisor was filled by one of the faculty members Will Katzen. However, Mr. Katzen resigned after one month on board. The next candidate declined the job for financial reasons. Things looked pretty gloomy for the radio station. To make matters more complicated, the Federal Communications Commision ruled that all ten watt stations must increase their power to a minimum of 100 watts and operate at least 12 hours per day every day of the year by January 1, 1980, or face costly frequency search and possible change or shut down.

The first step on the road to recovery was twofold. First they had the good fortune to secure the services of an excellent engineer who began by transforming the signal from mono to stereo. Secondly the new management and staff gained the support of the S.G.A. So in March the S.G.A. agreed to fund the executive staff's trip to Washington D.C. to attend a convention of collegiate broadcasters. The new staff brought back new ideas and a better understanding of the mechanics of how to run a radio station.

Now came the challenge for WMWM. They had to purchase a new transmitter and install it before the end of 1979. The biggest problem was how to pay for this new piece of equipment. First there was a week of 24 hour broadcasting, a D.J. marathon. Over $800.00 was pledged but sadly less than a tenth of that was collected. As time ran out the last hope was a grant from the Book Store Trust Fund. Members of the committee to review the requests were not too optimistic that WMWM would be funded at least not for the amount they had requested. The managers worked hard and came up with a presentation that could not be denied (which among other things included a recommendation from the mayor of Salem.) The staff showed en masse as a display of solidarity. Emotions were running high.

The final results took place on July 7th when a new higher power transmitter was put in place on the Meier Building. It was a long trying year for the members of the radio station, but they came out on top. And they have just begun.

CLUBS AND ACTIVITIES

Campus Christian Fellowship

This organization is an essential part of the school for religious minded students in need of peace of mind and involvement with "God". Christian fellowship president was Ms. Jude Griffin who organized prayer consultations and various speakers to lecture at the college. These people are always available to maintain a sense of warmth when encountered.

The Log

The Log is the name of the College campus newspaper. By information presented to us in the paper students have a sense of awareness and perception of the ongoing activities offered on campus or off. Apathy is a feeling that can sometimes overpower us but, thanks to the Log, students are finding their wants and needs sufficiently.

FRANCIS E. CALLAN RETIRES

Associate Professor Francis E. Callan of the Department of Theatre and Speech Communication at Salem State College will retire at the end of this academic year after twenty-five years of service to the Commonwealth.

Professor Callan was born in Brockton and graduated from Brockton schools, where he first became interested in the theatre. As a member of the Brockton Little Theatre, he received his first training in directing and acting. In 1936 he entered Bridgewater State, from which he graduated in 1940 with Honors in Drama. He was the narrator for the spectacular Centennial Pageant at Bridgewater State College. During World War II, he wrote a number of plays which were presented by public service groups for purchase of war bonds.

In 1950, he moved to New Hampshire, where he worked in the State Library and served as consultant for the New Hampshire Department of Education. While in Concord, he became active in the Concord Community Players, acting in and directing a number of dramatic presentations.

Professor Callan came to Salem State College in 1954, working in the library and teaching in the English Department under Miss Gertrude Burnham. He also produced plays in collaboration with Miss Marion Marshall. Together they revived The Footlighters, presenting such plays as The Glass Menagerie and Gaslight. In 1960, Miss Hoff, head of the Speech Department, retired and President Meier asked Mr. Callan to take over the chairmanship of that department. At the same time, Miss Marshal requested that he serve as advisor to The Footlighters. Also, Dr. James Sullivan, Dean of Studies, asked Mr. Callan to introduce some courses in Theatre, the first of which, "Introduction to Theatre Arts," was offered in 1961.

From then on, the drama became an integral part of Salem State College, with such classical and contemporary offerings as The Father by Strindberg, Hedda Gabler by Ibsen, Tartuffe and Physician In Spite of Himself by Moliere, as well as The Crucible, See How They run, Night Must Fall, The Tender Trap and Waiting for Godot.

The Theatre and Speech Communication Department has grown from one faculty member to twelve and new offers program leading to a Bachelor's Degree in Theatre Arts. The department also boasts of two theatre - The Main Stage Auditorium and The Callan Studio Theatre, which is designed for the presentation of experimental drama and student produced plays.

Professor Callan received his formal training in the drama from various institutions, such as The Leland Powers School of Theatre, The University of Arizona at Tucson, Northern Illinois University at De Kalb, New York University of New York at Washington Square, Columbia University, and Boston University. He is a member of the NEA, and the New England Theatre Conference.

Professor Callan's invaluable contributions to the field of Theatre and Speech at Salem State and to the college community as a whole will be long remembered by his many friends and colleagues.

what is there to bless us here?
the wind has bled the trees and now grips our shoulders there seems to be no certainty but winter—but, letting go the branches know that only cold can spark the blazing tune that unstitches stains and closes wounds; and, snug within roughened skins slow blood keeps murmuring the secret of all seasoning

it is this deliberate genius this ceaseless cadence, this song that teaches us how to hold the nourishment we need and we have grown to throw all trust into its wisdom we have learned when to pluck corn from green stalks and pumpkins from their vines, when to sow and when to abandon fields for bronzing, how to savor sun stung into tomatoes' plumpness how to unbough grapes, how to burden the bitter with the sweet, how to spice the wild grass with bruised apples all we pick turned to grains all risks ground like grist all dust caught, refined until our flowering bursts this fruit this cornucopia dazzling any season's bleakest question this moon-vessel, that, cradle-thin or brimming always harbors healing these melodies that twine hands to earth hands to water hope to hope this well-spring bubbling boisterously as foam or sighing subtley as sand persistently forging enduring forms the steady rhythm of splitting wood hugs our marrow as we fling ourselves into the task of gathering —this warming work—this harvesting that affirms, that keeps humming deep within our veins—our faith in Spring this circling of two that weds the loom to plough this garden-wheel that farms the stars for silver yarn this hearth where dreams are spun and all possibilities are nested and renewed where shoot is daisy-chained to bud and blossom bound to root where joy becomes the common food the faith in love we keep by giving—spilling this chorus hand to hand this yes! that is all that frees and forever blesses us that time of loving may not

come again
and so I've saved the old loves one by one
to call back when the leaves fall down
and winter covers all the town and now is next to nothing compared to where I've been
that time of loving may not
come again
or if it does it might not be the same
the loves remembered those that last
have caught me living in the past for now is next to nothing compared to where I've been
and that time of loving may not come again.

The "1979 CLIPPER" was a long and involved production. The staff encountered many obstacles throughout the the year. As every year in production there are those who lose their enthusiasm and the staff dwindles down to a dedicated few. For those of you who criticize this book I only ask where were you?

But, with the final accomplishment I am extremely grateful to Barbara Mac Donald, Pam Haigh, Maryann L'Heureux, Mike Kaminski, Helen Watson-Felt (my advisor), Tom Keeley (Yearbook Representative of Josten's American).

Many Thanks to my staff:

TO THE CLASS OF "79"

And now the end is here, and so you've faced the final curtain. My friends, say it clear, state your case, of which your certain. You've lived a life that's full, you walked down each and ev'ry hallway, and more much more, than this, you did it your way. Failures, you've had a few, but then again, too few to mention, you did what you had to do, and saw it thru with out exemption. You planned each charted course, each dreadful course throughout the semester, and more much more than this you did it your way. Yes there were times, I'm sure you knew, when you Bit off more than you could chew, but thru it all, where there was doubt, you ate it up, and spit it out. You faced it all, and you stood tall, and did it your way. You've loved, you've laughed and cried, you've had your fill, your share of losing, and now, as tears subside, you find it all so amusing. To think you did all that you all know, not in a shy way. Oh no, oh no, not you, you did it your way. For what is a graduate, what have you got, if not your diploma, then you have not to say the things, you truly feel, and not the words of graduates who kneel. The record shows, you took the blows, and did it YOUR WAY.
